

DEATHS.

Yale College, Nov. 19, 1804.

Died, at Southington, on Wednesday, 14th inst. Mr. WILLIAM ROBINSON, A. B. of this Seminary. This young gentleman was the son of Rev. William Robinson, minister of Southington, and was possessed of fine endowments and excellent dispositions. "Few youths have, at the same age, advanced farther in literature, or in amiableness of life. He was destined to the ministry of the gospel; and promised to adorn the office with distinguished talents, piety, and usefulness. But a pulmonary consumption ended his life at an untimely period; and cut off the hopes of his parents, and the expectations of all his acquaintance. To himself, there is the best reason to believe, his death has been unspeakable gain; but to mankind it has occasioned the loss of one of the most hopeful members of the rising generation."

"At Farmington, on the evening of Tuesday, Nov. 13th, Maj. WILLIAM JUDD, aged 63.—Major Judd, at the time of receiving notice from the General Assembly, was out of health, but having been chairman of the convention, and being by profession a lawyer, he decided on making his own defence. His extreme exertion, in preparing for this, so disabled him, that soon after his arrival in New-Haven, he was confined to his bed, and prevented from making his defence. After a partial recovery, he proposed to his friends, his wish to publish his brief or summary of defence, which being judged advisable, he furnished them with his ideas on this subject, which being reduced to writing, the manuscript and proof sheets were shown to him as fast as they were prepared, and he approved of them, remarking that his weakness did not permit a close examination, but that his time was short and that he did not wish any thing to be published, which should be incorrect. The work being nearly finished, he, having requested his friends to hasten the completion of it, left New-Haven yesterday morning, and having arrived at his house, expired at 11 o'clock in the evening.—This mournful event has not prevented the issuing his address."

On the 26th ult. at New Orleans, Mrs. ELIZABETH CLAIBORNE, the Governor's lady.—This lady possessed an elegant person, with every qualification that would render her dear to society: her conciliating manners and unaffected modesty, added to the most benevolent disposition, made her the admiration of all who had the honor of her acquaintance. Regret could not be more strongly manifested than by the conduct of the citizens of every description on this occasion. Many thousands attended her interment, and that of her infant daughter who died the same day—business of almost every kind was suspended.

At sea, on the 25th of June last, on his passage from Batavia to the Isle of France, Mr. DAVIE HEARN, chief officer of the Ship America, of Philadelphia—A young man of the most promising nautical talents, and universally beloved by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

At Huntington, the 9th inst. Master Samuel Ambrose Hurd, sen & Capt. Samuel L. Hurd.

At the same place, on the 16th inst. Mr. Elnathan, Bostwick, aged 50 years.

--On or about the 20th of Oct. at Philipstown, (N.Y.) Capt. Barabas Woodcock, aged 65, of Milford, this State. The disorder was an inflammation in the head, and terminated his life in 9 days.

In this city on Friday night last, Mrs. SARAH TOWNSEND, consort of late Jeremiah Townsend, jun. aged 60 years.

On the 14th inst. Mr. AMOS HILL.
